Join us in learning about how pet abuse and domestic violence intersect. This training will focus on what domestic violence is and how its impact not only affects the victims and children but pets as well. In addition, this training teaches what pet abuse looks like and how to detect both domestic violence and pet abuse when responding to an animal cruelty call, a domestic violence call, a child protective services call, or an adult protective services call.

Who should attend?

- Law Enforcement Officers • Animal Control Officers • Prosecutors
- Child Protective Services • Adult Protective Services
- Domestic & Sexual Violence Advocates

This is no registration fee for this training.

Lunch will be on your own.
